1,000 Convicts Stage Uprising At Penitentiary

Moundsville, W.Va. (AP) — More than a thousand cold and hungry convicts, revolting because they said they had a dirty cook and not enough clothing, milled around the big exercise yard of the West Virginia State prison last night.

About 200 prisoners, armed with knives and broken scissors, tried to storm the prison commissary but were driven back by rapid firing of the guards lining the big gray walls.

Another group tried to break into the power plant, but were driven off by more gunfire. There were no casualties reported.

They apparently thought that if they could gain entrance to the power station and douse the big penitentiary in darkness, they might get to the commissary. The prisoners had not eaten since noon.

Prison authorities said it would be virtually impossible for the rebellious inmates to get out of the prison. The big double doors of the wagon gate were closed and barred.

The only other means of exit was through the "squirrel cage" of the main entrance, or over the high, 14-foot stone walls which surround the institution.

The squirrel cage is a steel revolving door in which a person is locked in and out of the prison by successive mechanical stages. As the night wore on, small fires were kindled from odd bits of wood in the yard for warmth.

Skeen acknowledged the "tension" has been mounting for some time. And another prison official said "anything might happen."

The warden said a three-man grievance committee appeared before him yesterday to protest certain conditions in the prison.

"The men complained that one of the cooks was not staying clean and they objected to his unsanitary condition," he said. "I told them that would be taken care of."

"They also said they were not getting enough clothing, and I admitted that was possibly true, because we do not have enough funds available for clothes."

The Moundsville prison, built to accommodate 900 convicts, has a regular population of about 1,800. Several hundred inmates did not join in the mutiny.

State police reserves were stationed around the prison wall. Calls for help were sent out for all available state troopers to supplement the prison's guard force of 90 men.

Swiss Court Convicts Davis

Lusanne, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss federal court yesterday convicted Charles E. Davis, 23, Pasadena, Calif., of political espionage. The American Negro was charged with spying on Communists and United States diplomatic personnel in Switzerland on behalf of U.S. agents and Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The court sentenced Davis to eight months imprisonment, ordered him expelled from Switzerland and barred his re-entry for a period of 10 years.

Because he already has served 11 months in jail during the investigation of his case, Davis technically became a free man last night but must leave the country as soon as arrangements can be made.

Judge Albert Rais, presiding judge of the five-man court, in sentencing Davis, said that the American had furnished information to U.S. officials in the Geneva consulate-general and the Paris embassy.

House Approves Pension Raise

Washington, (AP) — The House by voice vote passed yesterday a bill boosting railroad retirement benefits an estimated 15 per cent.

The bill goes back to the Senate, which passed a similar measure Monday.

The legislation also provides for an increase of one-third in rates now paid to survivors of dead rail employees and for pensions not exceeding $10 monthly for wives of retired men. The idea is to bring the railroad pension plan more in line with social security benefits.

Railroad workers have their own government-supervised retirement plan and do not participate in social security.

He's In Trouble

Los Angeles (AP) — Laurence Holsclaw, 22, was accused in court yesterday of being married to three women at the same time, but writing bad checks totaling $115 to finance affairs with still other women.

RECOGNITION OF THE OUTSTANDING service Miss Loretta Biggs, Stroudsburg nurse, rendered to her profession by successfully promoting passage of legislation making tuberculosis among nurses a compensable occupation disease, occurred at the Penn-Stroud hotel last night. Mrs. George Biggs, her mother, is receiving a certificate of merit from Dr. Russell Teague, State health secretary, as Carl T. Secor, president of Monroe County Tuberculosis society, watches proceedings. The certificate was given by the TB society. (Daily Record photo)

Dr. Teague Declares Health Should Be Considered As Positive, Disease Negative

"The great misapprehension of the past, with regard to health, has been that people have looked upon disease as positive and on health as negative. The great mission of the doctor was to cure disease. Such is a radically wrong approach. Health should be positive and disease negative. The great mission of the doctor was to cure disease. Such 'There is no reason for the average man to die at age 68.4 as he now does, when under proper conditions life can be extended to the 80s or even the 90s or over the century mark. The latter years, however, will be contingent on new discoveries that are certainly on the way. We may almost take such wonders for granted, and they are sure to be brought by the not too distant future."

Such was the message brought last night to a cross section of Monroe county's leaders in civic and business life, by the chief figure in health activities in Pennsylvania. It was a feature of the Monroe observation of Pennsylvania week.

Dr. Russell E. Teague, State secretary of health, addressed nearly 200 members of the Monroe county service clubs, meeting with the Lions club members at the Penn-Stroud hotel, explaining State problems of health and the possibilities of betterment inherent in the formation of county boards to coordinate health problems.

Lions, Kiwanians, Rotarians, Exchangers, Business Women, the County Medical society and the Monroe County Tuberculosis society participated. Seated at the guest table were President T. Manning Curtis, of the host club, Dr. Teague, Mrs. Estelle Fleming of the Tuberculosis society, Dr. and Mrs. John Rumsey, Supervising Principal Carl Secor and wife.

Robert Haigh served as song leader and John Eaton as pianist. Dr. Rumsey was presented by Mr. Secor, president of Tuberculosis society, and, in turn, introduced Dr. Teague.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation, in absentia, to Miss Loretta Biggs, a nurse, of a certificate recognizing her great service in having nurses who contract tuberculosis in the public health service placed under the terms of State occupational compensation. The certificate was given her mother, Mrs. George Biggs.

Dr. Teague told of the beauty of this area and of the resources of State and nation and said that health is one of Pennsylvania's great resources. He said that this State and country have more than most lands and we are in fact the healthiest nation in the world. Mankind has always been beset by enemies, epidemics, illnesses, wars, and in former ages man was sick a good portion of his life. This has been changed so markedly in this country as the result of preventive medicine and education in sanitation, that foreign lands send their experts here to learn "how America does it."

Remarkable discoveries in treatment of the sick and the finding of wonderful new drugs have contributed to the great advance.

"Better equipped doctors are found today, better equipped hospitals too, and a beneficial situation, on the whole, that could not have been imagined fifty years ago. We have great health centers, where great classes of students are prepared to advance pre-

House Rejects Compromise Tax Bill In Surprise Move

Premier Of Pakistan Assassinated

Karachi, Pakistan (AP) — Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan was assassinated last night by a Moslem extremist who wanted a holy war with Hindu India.

The assassin, Sher Akhtar, was killed by a mob which surged onto the speaker's platform at Rawalpindi, 30 miles from the seething Punjab's border with disputed Kashmir State. Official sources said the mob caught the killer and "tore him to pieces."

The 56-year-old Liaquat, long a conciliatory influence in the embittered relations with neighboring India, had just started to address a meeting of the Moslem league. He was shot twice at close range, in the chest and head, and died soon after 5 p.m. in a hospital after an operation.

The Pakistan Cabinet was expected to meet at once to consider the dangerous new state of Pakistan-Indian relations that may arise from this newest instance of terrorism in the Moslem world, the scene of 13 such assassinations since early in 1945. Some of the assassinations—notably in Egypt, Iran, Jordan and Syria—have had far-reaching results in relations with western powers.

Foreign Minister Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, a possible choice to succeed Liaquat as prime minister, hurriedly prepared to come home from United Nations headquarters in New York. Pakistan has no deputy prime minister so it is still uncertain who will succeed Liaquat.

No disorder was reported in the Moslem nation of 80,000,000 people. But preparations were being made for a hasty funeral today.

(A later dispatch from New Delhi said all normal telephone service between India and Pakistan was suspended and telegraph service with Karachi was limited to one line reserved for official messages late last night. It appeared that Pakistani officials had ordered a form of censorship upon the arrival of Liaquat's body in Karachi by air to prevent a possible spread of disturbances.)

In Bombay, India, truck loads of heavily armed police began intensive patrols for fear that false reports might set off Moslem-Hindu rioting. False reports that a Moslem assassin named Mohandas K. Gandhi set off murderous attacks against Bombay's 400,000 Moslems in 1948.

Mindful of the possibility that the uneasy peace may be upset, India's leaders hastened to send condolences. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru paid tribute to the fallen Liaquat in one moving message, declaring "in this moment of sorrow all differences are forgotten."

"I shall greatly miss Liaquat's cooperation in the task of building up a lasting friendship between India and Pakistan," he declared.

Russia Lines Up With Iran Against U. N. Intervention

New York, (AP) — Russia lined up with Iran last night against U. N. Security Council action in the explosive Iranian-British oil controversy and forecast a Soviet veto on compromise proposals calling for resumption of all talks.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, acting Soviet delegate, lashed out at any Security Council decision in the case shortly after Iran's aged premier, Mohammed Mossaddegh slammed his open hand down on the council table and rejected a British proposal, or the compromise amendments put up by India and Yugoslavia.

Tsarapkin denounced a British resolution before the council as an intervention in Iran's internal affairs and objected also to the compromise amendment tossed in yesterday. His strong language forecast that he would cast a veto on the resolution in a vote which Council President Joao Carlos

U. S. Troops Trap Chinese; Negotiators Make Progress

U. S. Eighth Army Hqs., Korea, Wednesday, (AP) — American troops today caught Chinese forces in a giant trap on the blazing central Korean front where three Allied divisions have smashed within four miles of the big Red base of Kumsong.

"We put the cork in the bottle," an Allied officer said. "The Americans snapped shut their trap less than 24 hours after U. S. airmen handed the Communist air force its worst jet licking of the war."

The Fifth Air force said U. S. fliers shot down nine Russian-type MIGs and damaged five others in two swirling dogfights over northwest Korea. It reported only one F-86 Sabre jet damaged in the flashing battles between 70 U. S. and more than 150 Red jets.

Allied officers estimated that nearly 800 Reds were caught in the trap south of Kumsong. U. N. troops, who yesterday seized two peaks east and two more heights west of Fortress, snapped shut their cordon of steel Wednesday morning. They fought completely around to the north and joined forces.

Heavy fighting also raged Tuesday on the eastern and western fronts.

Tokyo, Wednesday, (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway announced considerable progress was made by Communist and Allied negotiators today toward resumption of Korean Armistice talks.

The announcement about the seventh meeting of Allied and Red liaison officers in Panmunjom, Korea, was released by Ridgway's public information office.

It cautioned, however, that there were some unresolved issues which must be settled before full-scale meetings can begin. These were described as the size of security zones around Kaesong, former site of the truce talks, Panmunjom, the new site, and Munsan, site of the U. N. peace camp.

Field dispatches from Munsan said the Allied and Communist liaison officers met at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. EST, Tuesday) but adjourned at 11:30 a. m., until 3 p. m.

Upwards Of 17 Killed During Egyptian Riots In Suez Area

Cairo, Egypt, (AP) — British troops fired on rioting Egyptians in two cities on the Suez Canal yesterday. From seven to seventeen persons were reported killed and scores injured.

The British commander pledged that his troops will remain in the canal area despite the efforts of King Farouk's government to oust them. Britain announced that reinforcements are on the way.

A British Army communique said "a small number of rioters" were killed and a British enlisted man was wounded in clashes at Ismailia and Port Said.

Egyptian officials at Ismailia said seven Egyptians were killed and 74 injured there and that four more Egyptians had been killed in rioting at Port Said. A Cairo newspaper put the total dead at 17, including two Britons, and said at least 80 had been wounded.

The western half of Ismailia, where all the British and Europeans in the town have their homes, was grimly guarded last night by British troops behind barbed wire barricades.

Egyptian Premier Mustapha El Nahas Pasha issued a statement to newspaper urging the people to remain calm.

The British communique said the situation at the headquarters city of Ismailia is now under control after a morning in which "a cannon and cars were burned and British troops opened fire to clear the mob."

A large mob attacked a British camp at Port Said, it added, and "British troops and Egyptian police opened fire."

Egypt too was reported sending in troops and police—to preserve order by account of the pro-government newspaper Al Balagh.

Weather To Be Little Warmer Next Four Weeks

Washington, (AP) — The weather bureau expects it to be a little warmer than normal on the eastern seaboard for the next four weeks. For the great plains, the outlook is for cooler than usual at this time of year.

A 30-day outlook, issued yesterday, said:

"The weather bureau's 30-day outlook for the period mid-October to mid-November calls for temperatures to average above seasonal normals east of the Appalachians and in the southwest but below normal over most of the great plains and western lake region. Near normal temperatures are indicated in the Pacific Northwest, the west gulf states and Ohio Valley.

"Precipitation amounts are expected to exceed normal east of the Mississippi and in the west gulf states but subnormal rainfall is indicated over the Southwest. Elsewhere amounts not far from seasonal normals are predicted."

Iran Reveals Plan

Tehran, Iran (AP) — Any British warships which might have attempted to attack Abadan would have been "melted" in the Shat Al Arab river by 2,500,000 tons of gasoline poured on the water and set afire, the Iranian Majlis (Lower House of Parliament) was told yesterday.

Minneapolis (AP) — Officers last night sought for questioning the 16-year-old son of a Minneapolis clubwoman, Mrs. Mary R. Pett, stabbed and beaten to death earlier yesterday in her suburban Christmas Lake home.

Asks Senate For Another Conference

Washington (AP) — The House rejected the compromise $5,732,000,000 tax increase bill yesterday in a stunning upset that left key lawmakers questioning whether any revenue measure at all will be passed this year.

The 203 to 157 vote against the bill surprised even the unusual combination of Republicans and northern and big city Democrats who made up the bulk of the winning side in the roll call.

The forces who turned it back were composed principally of two groups: (1) those who oppose a tax increase until government spending is slashed and (2) those who said the bill hit too hard at low income groups and too lightly at large incomes.

"It apparently was a combination of extreme left wingers and right wingers who outnumbered the middle," commented Senator Taft (R-Ohio).

The bill, worked out by a Senate-House conference committee after Senate and House had passed it in differing form, would have raised individual income taxes $2,333,000,000 a year, and made other big changes in revenue law.

The plan was to boost the personal income tax rates by about 11 1/2 per cent, with the option of paying at present rates and then adding 9 per cent of what the taxpayer has left. The option would benefit single persons with incomes of $28,800 or more, and married couples above $37,600. At such levels, or higher, the present tax rates already take a heavy percentage of total income.

Yesterday's vote threw a big monkey wrench into the machinery that had been spinning smoothly toward adjournment of Congress at the end of this week.

The House asked the Senate for a new conference to try for another version of the legislation. The reception of the Senate side was far from warm.

Among those voting for the measure was Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.).

Washington (AP) — House rejection of the compromise tax bill threw into confusion last night the prospects for legislation to permit states to make public the names of relief beneficiaries without danger of losing Federal social security money.

The permission had been attached to the money measure and there were some suggestions last night that it was one of the things that brought about the surprise House action.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), for instance, told reporters that the forces which turned back the legislation 203 to 157 included "CIO supporters who were against the Jenner amendment and a number of other things."

American Among 17 Dead In Crash

Johannesburg, South Africa, (AP) — Seventeen persons, including one American, were killed in the crash of a South African Airways plane on a 7,600-foot peak some 100 miles southwest of Durban on Monday.

The plane hit the peak in a heavy fog, exploded and burned. The government, which owns the airline, announced that all 13 passengers, two of them children, and the crew of four were killed. It was the greatest loss of life in a plane crash in this country since the government took over the airlines in 1934.

Among the passengers was N. I. Christensen, personnel manager of the Vacuum Oil Company of South Africa, who was educated at Utah State College and the University of California.

Dewey Urges U. S. Revision Of Propaganda

Hartford, Conn. (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey last night called on America to shift its propaganda line and begin championing "Asia for the Asians—not for the Russians."

He asked an end to "green tie bathroom" propaganda which pictures the United States as a nation of ease and comfort. This plays right into Russia's hands, he said.

Moreover, he said in an address before the Connecticut State Bar association:

"We must stop trying to make the rest of the world over into our own image."

"In the past," the titular head of the Republican party said, "where our information services were not actually in the hands of leftwingers who tried to stab us in the back, they were in the hands of sincere bunglers who tried to sell America as a commodity and not as an ideal."

Taft Formally Announces His Candidacy

Washington, (AP) — A broadly smiling and apparently confident Robert A. Taft formally threw his hat into the presidential ring yesterday.

The Ohio senator made the long-expected announcement of his candidacy at a jam-packed, steamily hot news conference. He predicted the Republicans would nominate him and the voters would elect him to the White House on a platform pledging:

One — Restoration of progress "within the principles of liberty rather than the principles of Socialism."

Two — Restoration of "honesty and integrity" in government, with an end to corruption and influence-peddling.

Three — A restudy of U. S. foreign policy to halt the spread of Communism, "including the establishment of Korea as a free country and the completion of the arming of Western Europe to enable it to defend itself against Russian aggression."

For Taft, son of President William Howard Taft and regarded by many as the Senate's "Mr. Republican" since his dominant role in the GOP-run 80th Congress, this was the third all-out bid for his party's presidential nomination.

MacArthur To Address Legion Today

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Miamians packed into the streets yesterday by the tens of thousands for a glimpse of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and to watch the American Legion's mammoth eight-hour-long parade.

The city took a holiday and Legionnaires dropped their convention work for the big, colorful parade of marching men and floats and blaring bands.

Rain clouds drifted overhead but that wasn't enough to keep the crowds from packing the downtown streets long before the marching to give General and Mrs. MacArthur a rousing welcome.

MacArthur will address the Legion at 1 p. m. today. His speech suddenly assumed new significance with the Washington announcement of Sen. Robert A. Taft as a presidential candidate.

Asked to comment on Taft's announcement, the five-star general said:

"Everything I have to say I will say in my speech tomorrow."

Senate Group Okays Aid Bill

Washington, (AP) — The Senate Appropriations committee approved a $7,208,401,302 foreign aid bill yesterday after cutting House allowances for both arms and economic assistance by 5 per cent and then adding $100,000,000 for Spain.

The fund for military, economic and technical aid to Spain would be spent at the discretion of the President.

Accuses Leaders

Washington, (AP) — Senator Brewster (R-Me.) yesterday accused administration leaders of "stealing" to prevent a Senate showdown on confirmation of Ambassador-at-large Philip C. OPS To Put Dollars-Cents Ceilings On Restaurant Meals, Convention Advised

The Office of Price Stabilization is getting ready to put dollars-and-cents ceilings on restaurant meals, August H. Dressel, acting chief of the OPS restaurant branch, told the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Restaurant association at Pocono Manor yesterday.

Dressel explained that the present restaurant regulation, in which the restaurant adds an operating margin to its food cost in order to determine ceilings, was an interim measure and that the time is "rapidly approaching" for a substitute "which would make more sense from a price control standpoint."

"In writing a dollars-and-cents type of regulation," Dressel declared, "we are not permitted by the defense production act to place a ceiling on an agricultural commodity which is below parity. This means that we must provide some adjustment feature to allow an increase on food items which are under parity. This is a very difficult thing to do because of the complex nature of the preparation of food dishes."

"For example, a single dish may contain one or more items which are under parity, and one or more items which are above parity. This type of situation presents a problem in fixing a firm ceiling price for that item. Similar problems are encountered in pricing seafood, poultry, fresh fruits and vegetable items, as these items are not under control."

"The most effective program of price control is that which uses dollars-and-cents ceiling prices and requires the public posting of those prices. With the present their right hand pocket and put the cash from their sales into the left-hand pocket. Posted ceiling prices would be a more practical price control measure for these operators."

Lincoln Play To Be Given Here Friday

At 8:45 Friday morning, students of Stroudsburg High school will re-live the closing moments in the life of one of the greatest American presidents.

The man's name was Abraham Lincoln. He spent the final minutes of his life watching—and being entertained by—a melodrama called "Our American Cousin" at the Ford Theatre in Washington, D. C.

The Conservatory Players, a drama group directed by Helen F. Evans, have made quite a career of reproducing the play exactly as it was performed on that night—April 14, 1865. Mixing dramatic and national history in equal parts, the Players have come up with a highly successful entertainment for high school assemblies and other community organizations.

Friday morning's performance in the Stroudsburg High school auditorium promises to be one of the most stimulating on a crowded list of important assemblies for the school year.

Veterans Bureau Protests Taking Crosses From Graves

The Monroe County Bureau of Veterans Affairs has been alerted to a Russian plot against the American way of life.

The first furtive blow has been struck in a Honolulu cemetery, according to a special supplement to the October bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Association of County Directors of Veterans Affairs (PSACDV).

PSACDV asked the Monroe county bureau to join a protest against the reported removal of crosses from veterans' graves in Honolulu. (The bureau said it didn't know if any Monroe county veterans are buried in the cemetery.)

The bulletin was received by

Mrs. Willita Rogalski, director of the county bureau.

It listed Rep. John Rankin of Mississippi as one of the defendants of the U. S. who shrewdly questioned, "Is it a communistic drive to destroy Christianity throughout the world?"

Rep. Rankin described a supposed photo of the cemetery after the crosses had been removed. "It looks like a vacant cow pasture," he said.

A letter printed in the bulletin, purportedly from Rev. Lawrence Reilly of the "Christian Antidemonstration League" jabbed an accusing finger toward Assistant Defense Secretary Anna Rosenberg.

"We . . . live in a country that can still combat the atheistic principles of Soviet Russia, whose fellow travelers have inspired this dastardly action . . . Isn't it paradoxical that . . . we permit Anna M. Rosenberg to remove the symbol of Christ?" demanded the letter.

The letter expressed Rev. Reilly's concerned outrage over removal of the "symbol" from the graves of those who died, and urged action to stop "this anti-Christian, bigoted and intolerant action."

He urged no action to stop the Korean war which he described in the letter, however, as "needless."

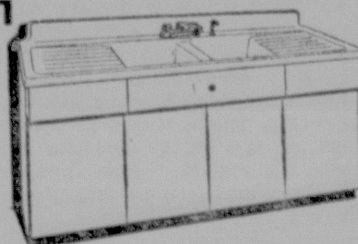

A third letter, from a New York National Guard chaplain, said the removal of the crosses "savours of an atheistic Russian attack against our Christian belief." He urged, "Protest . . . before similar action is taken in all cemeteries."

This is your fight—get in it!

We're fighting a dangerous war right here at home. It's a war against inflation, and it's everybody's fight. Inflation sends the prices up, steals the dollars out of our pockets, upsets our economy, threatens our plans for national defense. How can we beat it? Only through the common sense and self control of every American worth his salt.

We can't stop inflation by passing laws against it, but the American people can beat it fast, like this:

1. Encourage economy in public and private spending.
2. Buy only what is really needed and reasonably priced.
3. Invest every extra dollar in U. S. Government Defense Bonds and hold them to maturity.

Remember that U. S. Defense Bonds are more than a weapon against inflation; they're the safest dollar investment in the world!

Little Talks With Big Thoughts

Korea came to our little village, as one of our boys came home to our Hill Side Graveyard.

At four o'clock came the sharp crack of rifle fire; followed by the bugle prayer of "taps."

That night at nine, I heard the happy voices from the boys' camp over the hill. Then the bugle call "taps" for quiet, and a peaceful night's sleep, in preparation for a new day of enjoyment.

With a full heart, I prayed to God. That "taps" would again only mean a prayer for a night of rest, before a day of life, for all our young men; and not a rest eternal, after a war-weary day.

The Honest Are Hurt

Disclosures of widespread corruption and petty graft within the federal bureaucracy unfortunately has placed a black pall over government service as a whole.

They have had the effect of reflecting on the character of federal service despite the fact that the overwhelming majority of government workers are honest, hardworking, and underpaid. Many of them have made considerable sacrifices to contribute their talents to their government at a time of crisis.

These people suffer unjustly for the abuses indulged in by a few of their fellow workers who see in their jobs only an opportunity to feather their nests. The sins of the few are visited on the heads of many.

This is an important element in the moral explosion that has erupted in Washington that is likely to be overlooked. It is important because it will undoubtedly result in a general distaste for government service. Those now holding federal jobs will be anxious to quit when the first opportunity for private employment arises and potential government workers will be deterred from joining the government payroll.

It would seem that an administration with any moral consciousness would recognize the full effects of the scandals on public service instead of insisting that nothing is "legally" wrong, that it is all a tempest in a teapot. This attitude is abhorrent not only to the nation at large but also to the loyal and honest government workers who see the general tone of their careers blackened by the brush of scandal.

Fidgety Finnegan

James P. Finnegan, the ex-tax collector from St. Louis, didn't see anything wrong in taking fees from delinquent taxpayers whose payments were subject to his jurisdiction. These were "legal" fees, Mr. Finnegan explained, and had nothing to do with the delinquent's taxes.

Nothing, of course, except that Mr. Finnegan was the tax collector.

Testimony before a House committee charged that Mr. Finnegan also got $6193 from an insurance company which specialized in selling policies to delinquent income-tax payers.

Mr. Finnegan denied under oath he ever had been in the insurance business. Just taking fees.

Newspapermen covering the hearings said Mr. Finnegan fidgeted in his chair while the testimony was being taken. Mr. Finnegan probably would say he wasn't fidgeting, just squirming.

Amateur horseshoe pitchers, content to make one ringer out of ten, and hopeful only of landing all their shots within a foot of the stake, wavered between incredulity and despair when they read that Ted Allen, of Boulder, Colorado, established a world's record with 29 consecutive double ringers. Allen also killed a rabbit at forty feet by hanging a horseshoe around its neck. Hank Bradshaw testifies that any tournament topnotcher can light a match tied to the stake with one shoe and extinguish it with the other. He also says most of them will give you ten to one you can rest your chin on the top of the stake while they throw ringers under it. That's your chin, brother; not mine.

Reminds me of the time Squire Persons visited the State Fair and plunked down $1.40 in "skin dimes"—the tenth part of a dollar—to see fourteen consecutive performances of Senior Hidalgo hurling knives into a board and making a silhouette with them around the body of his buxom blonde wife. Finally the squire shuffled off for home muttering disgustedly, "Shucks, the darn fool just misses her every time!"

Hollywood

Hollywood—Podner, meet Rex Allen. Now that Roy Rogers has departed so he can do TV films on the side, Rex is top hand on Republic's celluloid range.

"The drawlin", handsome, singing actor is 5 feet 1 inch and 165 pounds, with blue eyes and extremely white, even teeth. His hair is brownish blond. He was born 28 years ago on his dad's cattle ranch. A sign recently erected outside Wilcox, Ariz., announces: "Home of Rex Allen."

He was riding by the time he was four and milking cows when he was six. "Dad played a square-dance fiddle," Rex recalled, "and when I was 11 he bought me a mail-order guitar and an instruction book and said: 'You had better learn to pick that thing. I don't think you'll work hard enough to earn a living.'"

"I'd play for parties and rodeos and in the barber shop on Saturday afternoons. Men'd set around and tell stories and somebody'd play the fiddle, and I'd accompany the fiddle. I didn't know anybody made money playing guitar. I thought they did it for fun."

Finishing high school, he joined a rodeo, "ridin' and calf-ropin'," and ended up broke in the East. He washed dishes in a Trenton N. J. hotel for pay and sang free on a radio station next door. Then he joined the Sleepy Hollow Gang at an amusement park 40 miles from Philadelphia. From there he went to the National Barn Dance, broadcast from Chicago, for five years. When "Wild Bill" Elliott left Republic, Rex was brought in.

He has made a dozen pictures. Now his schedule has been increased from four to eight films a year. Their budget has been upped, and he has Roy Rogers' former director, William Witney, and associate producer, Edward

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Robert A. Taft
This much is now clear in the Republican canvass to find a candidate for presidency:
1. Robert A. Taft is an open candidate who is corraling delegates:

2. General Eisenhower has not yet declared himself a candidate, which nobody else can do for him. Nor has he publicly and formally declared himself to be an adherent of the Republican party.

3. Governor Warren, of California is clearly not a party to any measure to support or oppose any other candidate but could be and is likely to be a candidate in his own right;

4. Harold Stassen is no longer to be regarded as without personal aspirations;

5. Tom Dewey remains totally out of the picture;

6. Paul Hoffman, dispenser of ECA and Ford money, is a comer-upper who is emerging into the storm with prayerful longings that the lightning might strike.

This makes for an extremely interesting situation. General Eisenhower's friends feel sincerely that only he can defeat Harry Truman; his opponents are equally sure that he would be an easy target for Truman because of his affiliations with the Truman administration. This much is certain; unless Eisenhower gets into the campaign by the beginning of 1952, he will be out of the picture altogether. Politicians cannot wait for him; they are in the business of making and accepting commitments.

It is the organization politician who produces the delegates to the conventions. Such stalwart Republicans as Marquis Childs or Doris Fleeson will not send a single delegate to the Republican convention nor will many of the businessmen who so ardently support General Eisenhower. Too many of them have been too lazy and too lackadaisical to make sure that they could vote in the primaries.

This, then, is a politician's problem in the first place, as the convention which nominates a candidate is in reality a private meeting of registered partisans. They may not be the best or the smartest people in the world and not, by half, as knowledgeable as you or I. But they have the votes in the convention, which is what counts.

Therefore, if General Eisenhower wants the presidency enough, he must go after it himself. In the traditions of this country, the presidency is a good enough job for a man to be willing to fight to get it. Those who have advised General Eisenhower to adopt the attitude that he would prefer to be drafted were not politically keen because that can be used against him as violating the concept that the office is bigger than the man.

As for Robert A. Taft, these purely political factors stand in his favor:

1. He has become the symbol of the Republican party. While Mr. Dewey likes to be regarded as the titular head of his party, no one in it takes that seriously. His influence on the party, on its members in the Senate or the House is small. His greatest strength is his hold on the New York State delegation, which is a valuable asset. His opposition to Taft, however, is resented because it is personal not partisan;

2. Taft's success in Ohio offsets the argument that he cannot be elected, which no one can even estimate with any degree of accuracy until the votes are in. The arguments on both sides of this question seem futile and inconclusive;

3. The fact that the Truman people conduct a propaganda that Truman would prefer Taft as a candidate, obviously aids Taft.

Such a propaganda, based on ridicule, gives the opposite impression from that intended. Furthermore, the fact that all New Deal columnists and all the old Willkie crowd oppose Taft strengthens his position with Republican politicians. It is almost axiomatic that any candidate who has the support of Henry Luce of Life-Time-fortune will be opposed by active Republicans because Luce is usually blamed for Willkie. He is politically regarded as hard luck. His opposition to Taft has aided Taft considerably within the Republican party;

4. Finally, registered, working Republicans want a Republican for president this time. They would go for such men as Taft, Warren, Dirksen, Stassen—I cite these as types. The outsider is unwelcome. I meet organization Republicans from many states all the time and that is the general consensus of opinion among those who will choose and who will be delegates.

Nevertheless, the situation is still fluid and Eisenhower could alter it greatly by an open and frank declaration. And this I allow myself to predict: when and if General Eisenhower makes such a declaration, General Douglas MacArthur will become a factor.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington — British coal production is 3,000,000 tons below that country's current consumption rate. Despite nationalization of mines, economic planners and large U. S. dollar gifts and loans, the British face another cold winter.

The British people remember the winter of 1946 when coal supplies were depleted and electric power and lights were cut off for hours each day. British Labor government politicians promised to correct these inconveniences forever, with nationalization and economic planning. They promised also that tools to help the government correct its economic deficiencies would be supplied in part by America.

It is against this backdrop that British voters go to the polls next week. The Labor government of Prime Minister Clement Attlee was forced to take its problems to British voters. It either has to have a working majority in Parliament or surrender control of the government to Conservatives. Attlee realized his Labor government could not survive another winter crisis of power shortages, heatless homes and rising food prices without a fresh mandate from the people. Most people, including Attlee himself, will be surprised if he gets it.

The coal issue is enough in itself to send British Laborites down in defeat. When Attlee promised to cure the coal shortage with the help of American mining equipment, he was actually chiseling on the truth. We gave the British the mining tools, all right, but Attlee failed to tell his constituents that little of it would stay in England for use in British coal mines.

In 1948 a House appropriations subcommittee revealed that we gave the British, under lend-lease approximately $20,000,000 worth of coal stripping machinery. This machinery should produce at least 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 tons of strip coal each year. If used efficiently, as such machinery is used in this country, it could have supplied the British with as much as 15,000,000 tons of coal annually.

If used around the clock, as expensive machinery oftentimes is, it could have supplied some 20,000,000 tons of coal.

Initially the British told U. S. officials that their strip sites contained 40,000,000 tons of coal. Later the figure was revised upward and U. S. officials were told the fields would yield 60,000,000 tons. Consequently in the post-lend-lease period the British government ordered, and got, an additional $10,000,000 worth of strip coal mining machinery.

Thus in strip mining machinery alone, either purchased out of U. S. loans or handed over free under lend-lease, the British had the means of exhausting their strip mines within two years.

Nothing of the sort happened, of course. And the reason is that despite British pleas for the machinery, most — if not all — of it was never even unpacked or placed at the mine sites. It was transhipped to the Soviet Union and other countries.

The House select committee on foreign aid, in a preliminary report dated March 7, 1948, agreed there was a strong likelihood that much of the coal stripping machinery "end use" would be in some country other than Britain.

J. White.

Allen told me modestly on the "Colorado Sounddown" set:

"I'm not trying to take anybody's place. I'm just trying to make a place of my own."

He added: "This is the hardest work I've ever done in my life. But I like it. It's a lot better than fixin' fences and windmills."

His cocoa-colored horse, KoKo, nods or shakes his head, in answer to questions, when Rex presses his shoulder or chest.

Walter Winchell on Broadway

Mr. and Mrs. United States!

Did you know that there is a man so powerful that he can have a Peace Declaration between the United States and a major nation amended to include himself? . . . If you were told that there was a representative of a foreign trust for 15 years, who had officially been declared to be engaged in breaking the Allied blockade at the beginning of the war (and that this man then was paid $35,000 a year DURING THE WAR — BY THE U. S. ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN — plus $1,800 in Christmas bonuses — plus incentive bonuses of from $15,000 to $25,000 a year, totaling in 8 years $538,600) would you rub your eyes? . . . If, in addition, he was retired at a pension of $15,000 a year — would you continue to wonder?

Well, that's nothing. This same remarkable man, Ernest K. Halbach, was paid $557,550 by the U. S. Gov't for his enemy-controlled shares. . . . According to the Dept. of Justice, Halbach made over 150% on an investment of $210,000. . . . Now Halbach's powerful friends have succeeded in getting Senator Wiley of Wisconsin to espouse a special amendment as part of the peace declaration with Germany, by which the U. S. Gov't would be unable to plead that payment to Halbach was a bar to a future suit by him.

The German Trust he represented was the I. G. Farben. . . . The American companies with which he was affiliated are the General Aniline & Film Corporation and the General Dyestuff Corporation. . . . The whole thing adds up to the worst scandal in American history, and its climax is the brazen attempt to amend Joint Resolution 289 (the termination of war with Germany) to allow Halbach to bring suit in a case he himself settled, according to official Dept. of Justice files, at a terrific profit.

The case is replete with mysterious features. . . . According to official records Leo P. Crowley, Alien Property Custodian, charged that the U. S. Gov't had used coercion and duress on Halbach to get the $557,550 settlement, which settlement netted Halbach 150% profit. . . . Then, when Mr. Crowley was examined under oath (on April 3, 1951), he reversed himself and withdrew his charge of coercion. . . . Yet Mr. Crowley himself had originally authorized seizure of the Halbach stock, and James E. Markham, Deputy Custodian, testified as late as April 24, 1951 that the seizure was justified, as enemy-owned, and that the settlement reached was a fair one.

What neither Mr. Crowley nor Mr. Markham explain is how the ex-representative of the German Cartels was so valuable that, notwithstanding that they seized his stock—the Alien Property office paid him a total of $558,600 in six years—four of them war years—and that the General Dyestuff Corp. then voluntarily voted Halbach an $18,000 a year pension. . . . Eisenhower, Marshall, Bradley, Nimitz, Halsey and Joe Doak performed greater services

But it was sent along anyway. The central statistical office, which publishes a monthly digest of statistics of the United Kingdom, reveals that British exports of heavy machinery to other countries are three times higher now than the prewar rate.

It may not do the average British voter much good to think about this during the winter when he is trying to warm his hands over a coalless fire. But at least the economic planners didn't send his stove to Russia, and that may be a comfort.

for less.

According to official records, Halbach (as far back as 1926) gave control of General Dyestuff Corporation to I. G. Farben—and Farben-connected companies. . . . Say the official government records: "None of the G. D. C. stockholders, Halbach included, ever owned their stock outright. . . . Their stock was always subject to option agreements restricting the free sale of transfer of the stock and which provided for purchase from the holder at fixed prices and under fixed conditions. These option agreements were the means by which the I. G. Farben continuously retrieved control of the stock, allowing the current holder merely an interest of, AT MCST, $100 PER SHARE.

"Thereafter, in 1940 and 1941 two successive stock dividends were declared, each for 50%. The end result was that Mr. Halbach's holdings were increased by 125% of 4725 shares—shares for which he had made a total investment of $210,000, and for which, by the option, he could be bought out for $100 per share, or $472,500. . . . When he settled his claim (against the U. S. Gov't) he was actually netting over a 150% profit on his total investment of $210,000."

But that's not enough for Mr. Halbach. On January 23, 1951, 6 years later, after settling with the U. S. Gov't and agreeing not to sue, Halbach filed a motion to reopen the case to set aside the release and settlement—on the ground that the U. S. had used coercion! . . . Coercion to the tune of $538,600 in salaries, $537,550 in purchase price — and an $18,000 pension!

"boo" at you all the time? You can't open your newspaper, you can't listen to the radio, you can't look at television, without being "booed" at.

If it isn't a murder or some other crime — which is bad enough — it's some politician pointing his finger at you and telling you you are going straight to perdition unless —

Usually that "unless" costs us money. But it isn't that alone.

It seems that scaring us has become an efficient formula for reelection.

Something is radically wrong with the country, says this fellow, whom we will call Mr. X.

Unless we leave everything to him, says Mr. X, there is no hope. Only he can save us.

That of course is a lot of baloney.

There is NOTHING radically wrong with this country that the next election cannot cure.

The trouble is those guys talk too much.

But TALK can't take the place of ACTION.

For instance, some time ago somebody in Washington talked about our "fantastic weapons."

The Once Over

A Hint To Bankers
Bank advertising is too stuffy. It is up to the bankers of the land to produce ads with a wallop and spend more money on them, declares a banker addressing a national convention. "The banks of America stress size, age and the names of prominent trustees," he says. "But it is the advertisement routines of the cigarette, beer and cola people that produce results." He has something there. (How about some emphasis on the "king-size bank account"? Why not the safety-deposit box, "so sound, so firm so fully packed"?)

Tobacco, beer, toothpastes and face creams can't be more important to the public than ready money. It shouldn't be much harder to sell thrift than hair oils, washing powders and orange drinks. There will always be an appeal in the dollar. A bank must be less flamboyant than a cigarette company. It wouldn't do to ask "Visit these two banks: take a puff (don't inhale) and blow through your nose. Now which do you prefer?" Nor would there be much sense in telling the public that ten thousand doctors have examined a bank and found no case of "vault" irritation.

The bribery technique is out, too, we assume. There would be nothing for a bank in "the hand that never lost its skill" or the banker with "the big, creamy head." No bank could be put across as "the delightfully cool and refreshing bank that goes so good with a ham sandwich."

Nevertheless the bankers might well take a few tips from the big advertisers and put more punch and money into their sales talks. You can't tell us that there are no health-giving vitamins in those little green things John W. Snyder signs. They can look awfully sun-kissed, and rich in all the necessary elements. Why can't a rhythmic jingle do as much for a bank balance as it can for a hotdog, a chocolate bar or a stick of gum?

Bank deposits hit the spot. One or two grand, that's a lot! Save your dough and bank it, too. . . . Lots of lucre gives a glow to you!

Many of the devices of big-time advertising are open to the banks. How about a video-commercial with dancing deposit books? What about some Waltzing Assets? What's wrong with a little glamour in connection with banks, easily obtainable by the employment of a gorgeous eyelet to sing or chant a few lines for thrift and foresight? How about two charming dolls and the query "Which one has the MONEY?"

The cereal approach might be employed, too. A bank account can do more to give you "that satisfied feeling" than any breakfast food. Certainly a bank is no less vital to our way of life than a brewery. We are with the banker who accuses the banking institutions of being asleep at the switch, dull in their advertising approach and too restrained in salesmanship. Dignity my eye! Let's have a little color, glamour and warmth associated with a bank book! It certainly can make you "look sharp, feel sharp and be sharp." bub.

Bridge Agency Takes Over Title To 12 Water Gap Properties

Settlement With Owners Scheduled

Delaware Water Gap—Title to 12 pieces of property here has been taken over by the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge commission.

Maps of the tracts and approval of the condemnations were on record yesterday in the office of Floyd Butz, county register and recorder.

The land will be used for an approach highway and toll booths for the proposed bridge between this borough and Palsquarry township in Warren county, N. J.

Approval of the condemnations was given in Harrisburg Sept. 24. Recording proceedings were begun last week.

William Wilson, member of the bridge commission from Phillipsburg, N. J., said negotiations for settlements with property owners will be handled by a real estate committee of the commission.

He said the work of evaluating the properties probably will begin in November.

Beside the private homes which will be cleared away to permit building of highway approaches, three hotels are involved.

They are the Blair House hotel resort, a modern three-story brick building with about 30 rooms; the Hillcrest Apartments, a three-story building containing about 15 apartments of several rooms each, and the Hof Brau, with some 30 rooms, dance hall and an annex with additional rooms and office space.

The Hillcrest Apartments is owned by Howard Keiper, Stroudsburg laundry firm operator.

The Blair House is a summer tourist operation which is closed for the season.

Oldest of the three is the Hof Brau, built about 75 years ago and formerly known as the Delaware House. It was bought by Louise Brandy with other investors four years ago, renovated and put back in operation.

Members of the bridge commission have already rented office space in the Hof Brau annex, along with some space beneath it to be used as a machine shop for sub-contractors when the approaches are started.

According to the map of condemned property, two borough streets will be partially closed off—Delaware St. and Rock St. Both run in an east-west direction from property of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, whose property bounds the eastern portion of the condemned area.

Holder of the largest amount of condemned property was listed as Attilio Velardi, et al, whose three tracts make up the bulk of the condemned area north of Delaware St. (Delaware St. roughly divides the area).

Rock St. runs through the Velardi property. The proposed line of approach to the bridge will run through the condemned area from northwest to southeast.

Second largest property owner was listed as Fannie Howard, whose land is situated south of Delaware St., and between Route 611 and the railroad land.

The 12 property owners who have lost title are: Velardi, Fannie Howard, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad (which owns a sliver of the condemned land at the southeast edge); Louis Smolak Howard Keiper, Louise Brandy, et al., with two tracts; Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Jumper, Andrew J. Cobb, Ritter Castle Inn Corp., John I. Blair, John W. Salus, agent of the Kittatinny Hotel Co.; and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schweit. The condemned properties will be taken in fee.

Bangor Chamber President Seeks Industry For Borough

Bangor—Ernest Turtzo, president of the Chamber of Commerce here, called for efforts to bring new industry to the borough last night.

Turtzo's emphatic speech was made at the annual chamber dinner at the Colonial hotel. About 100 members and guests were present.

Mountain laurel, symbol of Pennsylvania week, made up the centerpiece on all tables. Invocation was given by Rev. Richard Rettew, of Bangor Presbyterian church, who later spoke on the religious freedom founded in the State by William Penn. He urged that it be kept.

The meeting was opened with singing led by Russell Sandcock. A number of chamber officials and civic leaders from surrounding cities and boroughs were introduced.

Main speaker was Victor Diehm, Hazleton, radio announcer, who described recent industrial development in Hazleton.

Kenneth Masters, vice president of the chamber here, spoke favorably of proposals to form a slate-belt chamber of commerce.

Miss Billard was awarded first prize in the handling class.

caused most of the remainder to move away until the scourge died down and, in very modern times the great epidemic of typhoid in Butler in 1904. This caused the medical fraternity to realize that disease must be fought on a more enlarged scale. In 1905 delegations of doctors went to Harrisburg and the state board was organized.

He traced the history of prevention touching on the grants given by the Federal government under the powers of the United States Public Health Service. United campaigns of many kinds followed.

"Many states have already passed beyond the centralized program, and returned responsibility to the people through the organization of county boards of health," Dr. Teague said. This makes certain the closest application of preventive techniques, which is the great desideratum," he added.

"At present, the centralized program is retained in Pennsylvania with the exceptions of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, where home rule has shown wonderful results. This caused the other 65 counties to ask why they also could not have the benefit of the same ideas. As a matter of fact, it is not practical for counties of much under 50,000 and units of 100,000 are much better. This of course means that counties should combine and, under the law they are now empowered to do so. They can have a full-time public health department. All states now have the same authorities.

"All present enforcement systems for health are largely obsolete. Public health is, at bottom, a promotional or public educational matter and not a matter of police jurisdiction, although, of course, the police arm must always be available for last resorts. "Is the taxpayer's dollar bringing the best results under the present centralized system? Former

200 Concrete Blocks Spill From Truck

Some 200 concrete blocks spilled onto Route 611 from a passing truck at the foot of Foxtown Hill last night.

Driven by Frank Hostetter, 41, Dover, N. J., the truck had made the trip from Scranton and passed through Stroudsburg without mishap.

Hostetter steered over the bridge leading out of the borough, made the turn and began the climb the hill.

"Right about then I suspected something was wrong," he said. "I knew this truck didn't pick up horse power that easy, and it was going up the hill fast."

Halt the truck, Hostetter checked his load of 1,000 gray concrete blocks. Part of it was missing.

He backed the truck to the foot of the hill, where he and a fellow worker, Claire Davis, 49, of 45 Stofflet St. Stroudsburg, loaded the blocks back on. Only a few dozen were shattered. Stroudsburg police set out flares, and directed traffic while clean-up operations proceeded.

The load of blocks was to be used for general building purposes, and was en route to Dover, N. J.

Dry Weather Reduces Crops

Harrisburg (AP) — The State Agriculture department said yesterday 12 weeks of dry weather in most of Pennsylvania is resulting in reduced crops.

Many wells and streams were low or dry as rainfall for the week ended yesterday averaged less than half of normal, said the department.

"Hauling water for livestock was common," the department reported. "As for many weeks past, dry ground hindered plowing and allowed germination and growth of fall seedlings."

Stray Bullet Kills Workman

Elgin, Ill. (AP) — August Aniballi, 68, threw up his arms in a field near Dundee yesterday and cried, "I'm stung."

Aniballi, who was directing a crew planting evergreen trees, died in an ambulance en route to an Elgin hospital.

An X-ray showed a bullet entered his body under his left arm. State police theorized he was killed by a stray bullet fired by a hunter.

Hauser Didn't Shoot Deer But Ate Some

Donald Hauser, 21, East Stroudsburg, had a complaint to make yesterday to Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser.

Hauser said a Daily Record story reported him as being fined $100 for shooting a deer in closed season.

He had not shot the deer, he said—he had only eaten it.

"You were as guilty as if you'd shot it," Justice Bonser pointed out, referring to the charge of "possessing parts of a deer in closed season." He added, "You had some of that deer in you when you came in here."

"Not very much," Hauser said.

"About $100 worth," Justice Bonser remarked.

Rites Arranged For Joseph Stout

Additional services will be held for Joseph Stout, Thornhurst, at the Methodist church in Thornhurst on Thursday immediately following the services to be held in the home of Mr. Stout's sister, Mrs. Katherine Knecht in Tobyhanna at 2 p.m.

Mr. Stout died of a heart attack Monday in the woods near his cabin.

Extended Forecast

Eastern Pennsylvania, eastern New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia — some chance of showers along the coast south of Delaware breakwaters today. Otherwise fair weather until scattered showers on Friday or Saturday. Total rainfall a quarter to one-half inch. Temperature will average four to eight degrees above normal. Warm through Friday except some cooler in interior of New York Friday.

Boy Critically Injured When He Runs Into Side Of Truck

A seven-year-old Easton boy was in critical condition at the General hospital, East Stroudsburg, last night several hours after running into a moving truck at the intersection of Route 611 and legislative highway in Mount Bethel.

The boy, Barry Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnson, 724 S. 14 St., Easton, suffered severe lacerations of the right cheek and a possible skull fracture. He, his parents and four brothers were visiting an aunt and uncle in Mount Bethel at the time of the accident.

According to Portland Police Chief Jessie Felker, at about 7 p. m., the child ran out on the highway and into a slowly moving semi-truck owned by Motor Carriages of Akron, Ohio. He struck his head on the gas tank rack just behind the cab and was thrown back across the highway, away from the truck and out from under the rear wheels. He was not run over by the vehicle.

Harvey John Hurd, Litchfield, Ohio, driver of the truck came to a stop in less than sixty feet, according to Felker. Witnesses to the accident said it was not the driver's fault. Measurement of stopping distance indicated the driver was moving at a speed of "about 25 miles per hour"—below limit for the area.

The boy was taken to the General hospital, where his condition was listed as critical. He underwent surgery at 10 last night.

Sportsmen Meet Tonight

The October meeting of the Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's association is scheduled for tonight at 8 in the Stroudsburg Municipal Building.

New officers will be elected for the year and report on deer kill for the first three days of the new bow hunting season will be heard.

Beginning with this meeting the Junior association will meet one hour ahead of the senior session. Election of junior officers will also be held tonight. As a special feature of the junior meeting, members will be given a talk on gun safety and general conduct while afield.

Child Unable To Explain Broken Arm

Delaware Water Gap — Four-year-old Phillip Farber III went across the street to the store with his father Monday to get a pop-sicle.

A few minutes after the boy returned from the store, Phillip went to his father and said, "Daddy, my arm hurts so bad."

Phillip was brought to the General hospital for examination. Doctors there found his arm broken in two places—above the wrist and just below the elbow.

After treatment he was released and returned to his home at Cherry Valley inn. Phillip is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Farber Jr.

The parents said young Phillip was playing with other children, but he was unable to explain how he injured his arm.

Ever stop to think

Your First Car can be a Buick!

THIS being a land where it is every man's right to dream of getting ahead—and the pursuit of happiness is guaranteed by the Constitution—it happens that a great many people aspire to own a Buick.

But too often they start with a lesser car first—from a feeling that Buicks are something you have to build up to gradually, as your take-home pay improves. So—if you have any such notion—we'd like to set you straight, right here and now.

You don't have to hope and dream and wait. If you can afford a new car—the first car you buy can be the Buick SPECIAL pictured here.

Its price tag says so. Its low cost of operation says so too.

We know that it looks like a lot of money. That's what makes it such a buy.

We know that it has a long list of features found in costlier cars, and that it rides and handles like cars that sell for a great deal more.

But that simply means that—at its price—you're getting a very big money's worth.

All of which adds up to one conclusion: the smart thing to do is come in and give this neat and nimble new SPECIAL a thorough going-over.

Try out its power—the power of its high-compression, valve-in-head Fireball Engine.

Try out its ride and handling—and you'll discover it has the "big-car feel" that you'd expect from a Buick.

Try it out for size—for room—for comfort—for all the things that you've dreamed someday of having in a car—and you'll thank your stars that you found out the facts of life in time.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Clean Kitchen Floors

Kitchen floors should be impervious to grease and easily cleaned, and they should be resilient. A curved base is a sanitary base, because dirt sweeps easily out of the sides where wall meets floor and where cabinets meet floors with two to four-inch recess. Rubber tile, linoleum, cork tiles, composition tiles, and blocks are suggested.

Winter Good Time To Do Inside Work

Winter months are an excellent time of the year to do, or have done, the interior painting and remodeling which is necessary or desirable. Walls and woodwork are dry and in condition to receive paint or varnish, providing that the surfaces have been properly prepared. The dry, warmed house atmosphere is free from humidity and freshly painted surfaces will dry well.

The painters and carpenters, at this season, have more time than during the "spring rush" and can work more comfortably than in hot weather.

Interior redecoration during the fall and winter may be a new idea to many, but it is thoroughly practical and work done during these seasons is apt to be more satisfying and more economical than the same work done at other times of the year.

And That's That

A jurisdictional agreement now permits plumbers to put in all bath and toilet room accessories such as paper holders, glass shelves, etc., while carpenters put in medicine cabinets.

Grubs In Old Homes

Sometimes, in old houses, one may hear a faint ticking sound which seems to come from the woodwork. The noise is produced by the grubs of small beetles, which have been in the timber since the house was built.

Casein Paint Speeds Job

If you want your interior finishing completed in double quick time, try using the new casein paint which comes in dry powder form instead of paste, is mixed with water rather than oil, and when dry can be washed with a sponge and neutral soap without damage to the surface. This paint is self-sizing, and gives a two-coat "hide" in one application. It passes all important government specifications in its class. Walls and woodwork finished with casein paint have a high light reflecting quality. It comes in white, 12 pastel shades, and in deep tempera colors for producing brilliant and vivid modern effects. Each application dries in 40 minutes to a velvety flat finish which will not crack, peel or discolor.

VFW Plans For Visit Of Bloodmobile

Another concentrated drive for blood donors, under the slogan "a living Christmas present", will be planned at a meeting of a special committee of Thomas P. Lambert Post, 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Thursday night.

E. J. Goodall and Howard Mount, co-chairmen, said the slogan is based on the fact that those who give blood on December 20 when mobile blood units of the American Red Cross come here, can be assured their whole blood will be in the battle zones of Korea by Christmas.

This is the second time the VFW has sponsored the blood donor drive in Monroe county.

Last year they set a record in the entire Wilkes-Barre regional district by promoting collection of 214 pints of blood.

This year the goal has been fixed at 250 for the December 20 project.

County Resident, Author Of New Daily Record Feature, 'Little Talks,' Follows Own Advice

It's a short step from thinking about how to make sick people more comfortable in body, how to make them more comfortable in their mind—at least it has been for Miss Lois D. Higgins, whose "Little Talks With Big Thoughts" begin today in The Daily Record.

But then Miss Higgins, head of the Spa at Buck Hill Falls, has always combined an interest in writing with her interest in people's physical well-being. Even during her high school days in Bayonne, N. J., she worked, not only on the school papers, but on nearby metropolitan papers as well, among them the Jersey City Journal and Boonettown Times.

While majoring in literature at Russell Sage and Columbia, where she became a physiotherapist, she continued her interest and her writing. After graduation, she edited the health magazines associated with the New York Tuberculosis society.

She has continued her writing, including many children's plays, and it was through her articles on early Americans for the Laymen's National committee that they asked her to do her bi-monthly "Little Talks With Big Thoughts."

The Laymen's National committee is composed of businessmen organized some years ago to combat the menace of Communism by advocating a return to the values of the founding fathers, whose government and business were founded on faith in and obedience to God.

Distributed to the house organs of members of the National Association of Manufacturers, these little "thoughts for the day" contain bits of simple, homely philosophy and comfort.

Through her lifetime of helping the sick, Miss Higgins has realized the close connection between mind and health, and her latest book, "My Journey Into Convalescence," which came off the presses October 3, derived its inspiration from her knowledge of their needs.

Illustrated by Jane Derrick, the book combines the idea of a scrapbook with bits of her own philosophy on how to make convalescence a pleasant experience rather than a tedious chore. It has pages on which to record the names of doctors and nurses, pages in which to paste cards and to press flowers—pages to record the names of visitors and room-mates, of funny happenings and hospital quips and for autographs.

Miss Lois D. Higgins

In the first week of publication, the book has had a rapid sale, and has been ordered by many gift shops and stores in this community.

Miss Higgins has been at the Spa for the past 11 years, but her time is divided between Buck Hill, and her own home which she and a friend purchased seven years ago. After so many years of living in hospitals and institutions, she is still rejoicing in the peace and joy of a home of her own. Named "The Frog Pond," the little old-fashioned house, overlooks the peaceful ponds in East Swiftwater, and is across the road from the Swiftwater Evangelical and Reformed church, whose hillside graveyard

PTA Meets Tonight To Plan Events

Parent Teachers association of Middle Smithfield Township Consolidated school will meet at 8 p. m. today with Mrs. Belva Fish presiding.

The hot lunch committee will report, and plans for the annual Halloween party on October 26 will be discussed. Parents are invited.

is reflected in the pools in front of her home.

It was in this hillside graveyard that a Monroe county veteran was laid to rest, and the incident furnished the inspiration for today's "Little Talk."

There are other sources of inspiration for Miss Higgins, near at hand. The three cocker spaniels, for instance, which gallop around the sloping lawn with their long ears flopping. Then there are the frogs. Because of the name of their house, friends have sent them hundreds of modeled frogs, some of them almost as big as the cockers.

But Miss Higgins finds in the pleasant countryside not only inspiration for her writing but also for her painting, which is another hobby which proves she follows her own advice to convalescents—to find interest in people and things about you.

Coolbaugh PTA Appoints Chairman Of Committees

Tobyhanna—Coolbaugh Township Parent Teacher association under the leadership of P. D. Frankenfield has completed assignment of chairmen for the 1951-52 fiscal year and arranged for prosecution of a number of projects.

Parents and teachers completed arrangements for a meeting on November 19 when Mrs. Arthur Hughes, Moscow, Pa., regional PTA director, will make an official visit.

President Frankenfield named these committee chairmen:

Mrs. Fred Pope and Mrs. Murray Blumman, hospitality; Miss Betty Leonard, publicity; Mrs. Malcolm Saxe, program; Mrs. P. D. Frankenfield, refreshments; Mrs. Frank Hochriner, membership.

A report was made on recent musical aptitude tests administered throughout the school to determine aptitudes for playing musical instruments. The survey was conducted to lay the groundwork for starting a school band.

Peter Milkerin and Frank McDonald, both of Scranton, conducted the survey. They filed their report and talked with various parents during the meeting.

The high school orchestra under Elsie Braxtor played three selections.

Don Hartley, Bethlehem, demonstrated the new projector which the PTA plans to purchase for the school system.

Mrs. Saxe, Mrs. Blumman and Mrs. Frankenfield served refreshments.

The present system of punctuating the written language grew out of a system by Aldus Manutius, an Italian scholar and printer of the Fifteenth Century.

Now—the prestige of a Packard is only "Pennies-per-Day" away!

Packard is holding the line on prices!

RESULT: The price difference between a lesser car, and a new 1951 Packard—on a time payment basis—has now been whittled down to mere pennies-per-day!

And what a whale of a difference those pennies can make in the long-lasting pleasure and prestige your money buys!

Just measure the difference in terms of incredibly smooth performance—from thrifty, and service-free Packard Thunderbolt Engines, America's highest-compression eights. In terms of restful, roadworthy safety—from the famed Packard Limousine Ride. In terms of everything you prize most in a motor car!

Definitely, the more you measure the difference, the more you'll realize that your thrifتيest long-range buy is the finest-built car of them all—the new 1951 Packard. Come see it—drive it!

Easy way to figure yourself into a new 1951 Packard:

Little Hope For Recovery Of Tiny Baby

Michigan City, Ind., (AP) — Hope dimmed last night as a third full day elapsed in the futile search for a tiny baby taken last Saturday from a crib in St. Anthony's hospital.

Police checked on numerous tips and volunteers continued a search through the Duneland country along the Lake Michigan shore. But no trace was found of little Lawrence James Lyons, who was four days old at the time of his disappearance.

Several stories were received of mysterious women seen carrying small babies. These were all pursued without result.

The FBI located in Milwaukee a practical nurse who left Michigan City about the time the baby disappeared. Agents said they established that she was not involved.

DISTRAUGHT PARENTS, Mr. and Mrs. James Lyons (right) attempt to comfort each other after their five-day-old baby was kidnaped from the nursery in St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, Indiana. Scene in the nursery (left) shows the empty crib (foreground) from which Lawrence James Lyons was taken. Police admitted that they were without a clue in their hunt to recover the infant.

Boyle Calls Meeting To Pick Chairman

Washington (AP) — William M. Boyle Jr. last night called the Democratic National committee to meet here October 31 to act on his resignation as chairman and elect a successor.

The committee also must deal with the resignation of Sidney Salomon who stepped out yesterday as national treasurer with the explanation that Boyle's successor should be free to pick his own associates.

Boyle in a letter to President Truman October 9, told the President he was quitting and said he would be physically unable to carry on the leadership of the 1952 campaign. He again protested his innocence of any wrongdoing in connection with any RFC loans but did not relate his resignation to the congressional investigation of political influence.

The chairman, now undergoing a physical checkup at Georgetown University hospital, instructed committee officials to notify members of the meeting by telegraph. The committee meeting will be held a little more than 26 months after Boyle took over the chairmanship from then Sen. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island. McGrath is now attorney general. Salomon, a St. Louis insurance man, said in a letter to Boyle that

Firm Dealing With Taxpayers In Trouble Paid Delaney, Finnegan Total Of $12,000

Washington, (AP) — A Federal investigator testified yesterday the internal revenue collectors at Boston and St. Louis were paid a total of $12,000 in 1949 by a New York firm dealing with taxpayers in trouble with the government.

Jerome Friedman, a special agent of the New York Internal Revenue bureau, informed a House ways and means subcommittee that $10,000 went to Denis W. Delaney, former collector at Boston.

Another $2,000, Friedman said, was paid to James P. Finnegan, former collector at St. Louis.

Delaney was fired and Finnegan resigned—and both are now under indictment for bribery. The House group is making a national investigation of scandals in the Internal Revenue service.

Friedman told the subcommittee that the books of the Estate Research bureau, a New York insurance firm, show that Delaney or the Denis W. Delaney Co. received four payments of $2,500 between April 26 and Sept. 15, 1949.

The investigator said the payments were made "within a few days" after the New York firm got $15,000 in fees from two Boston businessmen trying to settle their tax liabilities.

Finnegan got his $2,000 in a series of three payments beginning May 2, 1949, Friedman testified.

He said the same firm turned over $1,250 to Hugh Finnegan, James Finnegan's brother, in the same year.

Before Friedman testified, Maxwell Shapiro, a Boston woolen merchant, told the inquiry group that on April 21, 1949, he was visited in his office by Hugh Finnegan and Daniel Friedman, a partner in the Estate Research bureau.

Daniel Friedman, Shapiro said, made a proposal to "shave down" his outstanding tax liabilities of $142,000 to about $40,000. Shapiro said he consulted Delaney about the deal and was assured it was "O. K." Thereafter he paid Daniel Friedman $10,000.

M. P. Higgins, chief field deputy in the Boston office, testified that shortly after this Shapiro's tax accounts were removed from the general files and sent to Delaney personally.

But Shapiro told the committee he got nothing but "heartaches"

New Truck Bill Not Yet Okayed

Harrisburg (AP) — State police headquarters yesterday reported 19,861 arrests for truck overloading during the first eight months of this year—an increase of 190 over the period a year ago.

Col. C. M. Wilhelm, State police commissioner, meanwhile warned truckers that present truck weight limits will continue to be enforced until proposed new freight limits become law.

Legislation boosting weights of commonly-used commercial trucks in Pennsylvania from 45,000 to 60,000 pounds has been approved by both houses, but is awaiting Senate concurrence in House amendments.

Nine of those men were Pennsylvanians

... more signers than any other colony.

Ever since, Pennsylvanians have been putting their hands to the things that make a state—and a nation—great. Now the job is defense—defense of all the things we've worked for in the past and all the things we hope for in the future.

Pennsylvania has much to defend . . . and much to defend with. Democracy's arsenal is here. Concentrated in our great state are raw materials in abundance unequalled by many nations. Pennsylvania's productive plant is the greatest in the world—and expanding faster than that of any other state.

And that's another reason why no other state will do a better job for defense than Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Morgan, East Borough, Dies At 76

Mrs. Olive Edinger Fisher Morgan, 76, Green St., East Stroudsburg, died in General hospital at 12:27 p.m. yesterday. She was 76 years old.

Mrs. Morgan was admitted to the hospital on Monday evening. She had been in failing health for the past three years.

Born in Delaware Water Gap she had lived all her life in Monroe county, the past 50 years in East Stroudsburg.

She was a member of the East Stroudsburg Methodist church. Mrs. Morgan was the daughter of the late James B. Edinger and Hannah Hartman Edinger.

Surviving are her husband, Charles A. Morgan, at home; three sons, James Fisher, at home; C. Gilbert Morgan, Lewistown; and John J. Morgan, at home; three daughters, Mrs. Edward Kimler, East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Howard R. Flagler Jr., Stroudsburg; and Miss Carolyn S. Morgan, East Stroudsburg; five grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Howard K. Strickler, Narberth, Pa.; Mrs. Harry Warrick, East Stroudsburg; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Lanierman funeral home. Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of East Stroudsburg Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Stroudsburg cemetery.

Friends may pay their respects at the funeral home Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Electric Lights Absorb Dampness

Closets are likely to become damp during prolonged wet periods, and this will frequently result in mildewed clothing. Several methods of absorbing the dampness are available, but one of the cheapest and most effective is by turning on an electric light in the closet and letting it burn continuously with the door closed until the trouble has disappeared.

Quicker results are obtained when the light is placed near the floor, as this position aids circulation of the heat. A lamp of 25 watts is usually sufficient for the average closet. The home owner should avoid placing the bulb where it would come in contact with clothing and thus create a fire hazard.

Frank Brown, 65, Prominent Sportsman, Dies Unexpectedly At Residence In Canadensis

Canadensis—Frank W. Brown, 65, died suddenly at his home here at about 6 a. m. yesterday.

Mr. Brown was a son of the late Joseph and Mary Freeland Brown. His family came here from Germany and were among the first settlers in what is known as the Brown's Lake region of Barrett township.

A resident of Canadensis his entire life, Mr. Brown at one time operated the Canadensis hotel. For about 30 years he operated Brown's restaurant which he disposed of only recently. He still retains the Brown Lake development.

Mr. Brown was an ardent sportsman. Adept at hunting, fishing and trapping, he had some very unusual experiences in all these sports in many parts of North America.

His hunting and fishing trips took him to Canada, a number of times into the Arctic regions. He killed his first moose in Canada in 1909 and was the first hunter from this region to bring back

Only about a year ago he caught a very rare bald eagle near his lake in Barrett township and after displaying it to Barrett school students, turned it over to the Game commission for placement in a public zoo.

Mr. Brown was a member of Canadensis Methodist church, J. Simpson Africa Lodge, No. 625, F. & A. M., and Keystone Consistory.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mae M. Keorle Brown; two daughters, Mrs. Henry Jurgens and Mrs. C. Clair Smith, both of Barrett township; a son, Carl W. Brown, Canadensis; a niece, Miss Madeline M. Hess, Wallingford, Conn.; two granddaughters; a sister, Mrs. Samuel Cooper, Binghamton N. Y.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in Canadensis Methodist church. Rev. William H. Andermann will officiate. Interment will be made in Mountainhome cemetery. Masonic services will be held at the graveside by J. Simpson Africa Lodge, F. & A. M. Friends may call at the Canadensis Methodist church from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday.

William H. Clark, Stroudsburg funeral director, is in charge of arrangements.

HST Defends Controversial Health Plans

Washington, (AP) — President Truman yesterday defended his controversial national health program as an effort to get proper medical and dental care for people in such a way that "they can pay for it."

Talking to officials of the American Dental association in the White House rose garden, Mr. Truman said:

"I have had all sorts of accusations made against me about my intending to turn the country into a socialistic state and all that sort of business, but all I am trying to do is to try to get the proper medical and dental care for people in a manner so they can pay for it. "And if you will study the various statements and messages that have been made on the subject," he continued, "you will find there never has been a program more widely and completely misrepresented."

Mr. Truman said he was "startled" when he learned that medical rejections under the draft in World War Two ran over 34 per cent, and since that time, he said, "I have been trying to do something about it."

Teague Praises Elimination Of Mosquito Menace

Harrisburg (AP) — Dr. Russell E. Teague, State health secretary, congratulated Bristol area residents yesterday for wiping out a mosquito menace last summer.

"Mosquito control is not only highly important from the standpoint of eliminating pestiferous insects but has a direct public health aspect in preventing the transmission of such diseases as malaria and a fatal form of encephalitis," said Dr. Teague.

He sent letters of commendation to Bristol borough council, Bristown township supervisors and the Bristol Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber sponsored a program to eliminate mosquito-breeding places in that part of Bucks county.

ident's health program, which calls for compulsory pre-payment of medical costs, has been raised by the American Medical Association.

AMA critics have charged that the program is a step toward national socialism.

Faint SOS Spurs Hunt For Plane

Westover Air Force Base, Mass. (AP) — A faint SOS in the North Atlantic yesterday spurred an around-the-clock air and sea search for a lost Stratofreighter plane and her crew of 11.

Some 100 aircraft hunted 60 miles each side of the 2,346-mile track the four-engined C-97 Boeing military transport would have taken enroute from Lages Air Force base in the Azores to Westover. Weather for the search was good.

A distress call picked up by a Royal Canadian Air Force Lancaster plane at 11:20 a.m. yesterday while flying 115 miles southeast of Nova Scotia may have come from the Stratofreighter or its survivors, the Air Force said. But there was no further word on the SOS and no more such calls were heard.

The missing plane left Lages Monday at 3:45 a.m. and less than an hour later radioed it was flying through extremely turbulent air, possibly a thunderstorm. It was due at Westover at 2:22 p.m. Monday.

State Essay Winners To Be Chosen

(By the Associated Press) The sixth annual observance of Pennsylvania week rolled along at top speed yesterday in the State's communities but one group of citizens was deluged by mail because of the event.

The mail came from the State's High school seniors and was directed to the judges of the Pennsylvania week essay contest—who were scheduled to name a winner.

But the entries were so numerous the judges put off for a day the selection of a winner. To the top essay writers on the subject of Pennsylvania will go some $1,200 in prizes.

Mrs. Patrick Walsh

(Miles McAndrew)

Miss Caprioli Married At Archbald

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Caprioli of Archbald, Pa. formerly of Canadensis, announced the marriage of their daughter, Betty Anne, to Patrick Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walsh, Archbald, Pa.

Rev. Joseph F. Ryan officiated at the ceremony which took place in St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Archbald, on Saturday, October 6, 1951.

Anthony Durkin, vocalist was accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Walsh, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of imported Chantilly lace with iridescent sequins lighting the applied lace flowers around the illusion neckline. The long sleeves ended in points at the wrists. The shoulder-length veil was of nylon net with seed pearls sprinkled on the Juliette cap. She wore white satin opera pumps and carried a white satin-covered missile with her white orchid corsage attached.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Joan Smith, Newark, N. J., who wore an orchid brocade taffeta ballerina-length gown with nylon net stole and matching crown, mitts and pumps; she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of autumnal flowers.

Bernard Ziskowski, Archbald, served as best man. Ushers were Francis Walsh, brother of the groom and Jack Hughes, Brooklyn, New York.

The reception was held at the bride's home. Her mother wore wine with matching accessories and a gardenia corsage. Her baby sister, Alicia, wore pink with a corsage of red rose-buds. The bridegroom's mother wore charcoal grey with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride is employed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Newark, N. J.; the bridegroom by Allen B. DuMont, Passaic, N. J.

Junior SPCA Meets Friday At YMCA

The Junior members of the Monroe County SPCA will hold their first fall meeting on Friday, October 19 at 4:30 p.m. at the YMCA with Miss Wealthy Kortz in charge.

Members are requested to bring their old membership cards. This membership is composed of both boys and girls. Dues are 25c a year for which each member receives a button and card.

It is requested that there be a full attendance as officers for the coming year are to be elected. The meetings thereafter will be held on the third Friday of every month at the YMCA.

Home Ec. Group Organizes For Winter's Work

Cherry Valley — Poplar Valley Extension Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Francis Bayer in Poplar Valley to organize for the winter's work. The group spent the afternoon learning tips to make house-cleaning an easier task.

Miss MacLaren, who will take charge of the group, made wall paper cleaner and demonstrated its use. The next meeting will be held November 1 in the social hall and will be an all day meeting.

Each member is asked to bring their own lunch in order to save time that would be used in preparing lunch. Also everyone is asked to bring sewing machine in order to learn how to clean them and learn the use of the attachments.

At this meeting material will be ordered for making pocket-books; this project will take the group up to the Christmas holidays after which they are talking of taking up slip covers. Present at Thursday's meeting were Mrs. Wilfred Wagner, Mrs. Laura Brewer, Mrs. Edward Gunn, Mrs. Paul Albert Sr., Miss Margaret MacLaren and Mrs. Francis Bayer and sons Edward and Clifford.

There is a Marine Corps league in Monroe county, but there has not been an auxiliary. Those interested in forming such an auxiliary have announced that it would be open to the wives, daughters, sisters or widows of any man who has served in the Marines. They invite them to call Mrs. Charles Staples, 3385 J 1; Mrs. Edward George, 3385 R 1; or Mrs. Donald Wittercraft, 2083-J-5, if they would be interested in the formation of an auxiliary.

Pocono Grange Penny Supper Proves Success

Tannersville — Pocono Grange No. 1413 held its first penny supper in the firehouse at Tannersville on Saturday, October 13, with the public arriving in large numbers from 4:30, although the supper was not scheduled until 5.

They went back for seconds, too. So successful was the supper that the grange is planning another supper for the near future.

The next regular grange meeting will be held Friday, October 26 when plans will be made for all activities for the coming year.

Fire Co. Aux. To Have Class In Homemaking

Mount Pocono — The Ladies auxiliary of the Pocono Mt. Fire Co. met recently at the fire hall with 22 members and 2 visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Ray Simmons presided during the meeting and thanked the committees who had helped make the recent banquet a success. Those included: Mrs. Harry Taylor who was in charge of the program and Miss Julia Hamblin, Mrs. Walter Schneider and Mrs. Clair Hartman, the decorating committee.

Miss MacLaren, Home Extension director, was present and stated a class would be formed which is open to all interested homemakers of the community. A tentative date for Oct. 25 was set for the first meeting of the class at the fire hall.

Mrs. John Regan reported for the kitchen committee, enumerating various articles which had been purchased for the fire hall kitchen.

Mrs. Simmons appointed as a nominating committee: Mrs. L. C. Ingersoll, Mrs. Alvah Merwin, III, Mrs. Michael DeSanto and Mrs. John Regan, who will submit a report at the November meeting. Those selected as a hostess committee for the November meeting are: Miss Julia Hamblin, Mrs. Shirley Murray, Mrs. Betty Murtough and Mrs. Edith Moscow.

Two new members, Miss Lulu Fansen and Mrs. Ada Willard were welcomed.

The auxiliary also voted to cooperate with the forthcoming bond drive.

Mrs. Alvah Merwin and her committee served refreshments, following the meeting.

Marie Rinker, J. Cyphers Are Married

Miss Marie Rinker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Rinker, who now lives in Sunbury, and James Cyphers, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cyphers, of Bartonsville were married on Friday night in the parsonage of the Cherry Valley Methodist church.

Rev. C. Clyde Levergood performed the ceremony, with their only attendants the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bonser of North Ninth St., who that day observed their own 52nd wedding anniversary.

A reception and dinner party was held on Sunday in honor of both Mr. and Mrs. Cyphers and Mr. and Mrs. Bonser.

The bride who was graduated from Stroudsburg High school is employed at the Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Cyphers is employed by Ray Courtright.

They are making their home at 884 North Ninth St.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, East Stroudsburg High school parents followed the footsteps of their children last night at an open house, and the Junior High had open house the night before, so by this time all of us must have a better appreciation of the children's problems.

Which leaves me free to continue a thought that started the night before namely that it might be a good idea if we could work a switch where the children could understand parents' problems, too.

Since a thought is hard to come by, we might stick with it, and point out that the trouble with parents' problems is that there's nobody to tell them whether they have the right answers. Probably be years before we know whether we decided well or ill.

There are times when it would be handy to go back to our own school days when they had the answers printed in the back of the book. Handy but not nearly as interesting.

Food Festival To Be Given At Poplar Valley

Poplar Valley — At a recent meeting of the Poplar Valley Women's Society of Christian Service, held at the social hall, announcement was made of the food festival to be held at the Reiders church on October 26.

The committee from the Poplar Valley Church consists of Mrs. Paul Albert, Sr., Mrs. Edward Gunn and Mrs. Laura Brewer.

Following a dinner for which Mrs. C. Clyde Levergood and Mrs. Ernest Brewer were hostesses, they discussed the "Friendship Quilt" which is now in the quilting frames and being worked on by various members of the society.

The quilt will be auctioned off at a penny supper in the near future. Mrs. Laura Brewer, Mrs. Ernest Brewer and Mrs. Paul Albert, Sr., compose the committee in charge of the supper, the date of which will be announced soon.

Mrs. Fred Dennis thanked her committee and all who helped make the Homecoming dinner such a success. A membership drive was discussed but no plans have been formulated as yet. October 25 to 31 has been set aside as prayer week.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Norman Dennis with Mrs. Eric Schuchard assisting as hostess.

Present at the recent meeting were Mrs. Donald Reish and sons Bruce and Lawrence; Mrs. Orien Reish; Mrs. Glenn Reish; Mrs. Ted Bush and son Scotty; Mrs. Charlton Marsh; Mrs. Fred Dennis; Mrs. Laura Brewer; Mrs. Paul Albert, Sr.; Mrs. Wilfred Wagner; Rev. C. Clyde Levergood; Mrs. Edward Gunn; Mrs. Edward Dennis and daughter Gerty Mae; Mrs. Ernest Brewer and daughter Susan; Mrs. Estelle Roberts; Mrs. Cecelia Anthony; Mrs. Elmer Heffer; and Mrs. Norman Dennis and daughters Jean and Sally.

Also present for dinner were Charlton Marsh, Ernest Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Fenner, Miss Patsy Slutter, Miss Rita Lynn and Norman Dennis and the hostesses Mrs. Levergood and Mrs. Brewer.

Open House By PTA Fills E. S. Schools

The open house held last night at East Stroudsburg High school for parents of both high school and grade school students completed the series planned by the Parent Teachers association which began Monday night with the East Stroudsburg Junior High open house.

There the parents followed their child's daily schedule for fifteen minute periods, meeting their teachers and learning some of the purposes behind the courses. The Junior High open house was climaxed by refreshments served in the gymnasium.

The same procedure was followed last night in the high school, while grade school parents met with the teachers in the individual rooms.

They joined for a program in the high school auditorium where numbers were presented by the girls ensemble, the boys chorus and the mixed chorus, all under the direction of Miss Betty Jo Goodall.

Michael Hannon, president of the PTA, presided at the brief business session.

Eagles Lodge To Sponsor Benefit Dance

All members of the Monroe County Medical Society and the society auxiliary have been invited to be guests of Stroudsburg Aerie, No. 1106, Fraternal Order of Eagles at a Damon Runyon Cancer Fund benefit dance in the Eagles auditorium Saturday night.

Dr. Claus Jordan, chairman of the Monroe County Cancer Society and Dr. Evan C. Rees, chairman of public relations for the Medical society have been asked to convey to members of the medical profession and its auxiliary an invitation on behalf of officers and trustees of the Eagles.

Stroudsburg Aerie a year ago contributed better than $200 to the Damon Runyon Cancer fund, one of hundreds of such contributions from Eagle aeries throughout the nation.

The order has been cited by Walter Winchell with a special Damon Runyon certificate of merit for its fund raising achievements for the cancer fund.

All members of the Stroudsburg aerie throughout the Pocono Mountains region are expected to attend. A special floor show has been added to the music for dancers.

Frankie Reynolds and his orchestra will play for dancing. He was obtained through Jack Smith, Scranton broker of top entertainment. Mr. Smith has also arranged the Runyon dance floor show.

Officers and trustees of the Eagles hope that attendance of members and response from Medical society members and their auxiliary will result in a record-breaking attendance.

George W. Price, chairman of entertainment committee, has set up the arrangements for the benefit event. He was named to the committee chairmanship by Al Ruster, president of the lodge.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Monroe County's average baseball fan appears to be genuinely happy over the prospects of the North Atlantic League returning to Gordon Giffels field. Of course there are a few who say that the league will collapse somewhere in the middle of the 1952 season. However, from this angle it appears as if the circuit has its best chance of having a successful campaign since 1948, the last truly successful season, enjoyed by the class "D" loop founded back in 1946.

True, there will be plenty of obstacles, the same type that face any sort of business today, but I feel that the league has had time to think over its many mistakes during the year of idleness in 1951 and will profit by each blunder in the past. However, the circuit must pick up two good entries to go with the four teams already showing a willingness to operate. My personal choices are Carbondale, a charter member of the NAL that hasn't shown a willingness to go along as yet, and Chambersburg, Pa.

The four clubs interested in reforming the NAL are Stroudsburg, Berwick and Hazleton, all veteran campaigners in the league, and Frederick, Md., a former Eastern Shore League team. The admission of Chambersburg would form a natural rivalry for Frederick, as they aren't too far across the Maryland-Pennsylvania border. Carbondale, for some strange reason, believes that it has a chance to enter a class "C" or "B" league somewhere, but actually the chances of the Pioneer Blues improving their standings are very remote indeed.

Carbondale can forget about entering the class "C" Canadian-American League, as insiders in that circuit report it in very bad condition and ready to call it quits. There seems to be some trouble between the directors of the Carbondale club at the present time, but if someone can straighten out the difficulty in that town, the North Atlantic League, even with six teams, will have the best makeup it has ever had. The weak sisters that have been a financial and playing drain on the circuit in recent years are now apparently cut adrift by the circuit.

It was obvious last year that the people of Monroe County were lost without professional baseball and the man in the street wants nothing more than to have the game return to the area, especially if the circuit features six or eight evenly matched teams, not a four-and-four, or five-and-three proposition as has been the case in the past. True, about all the average citizen can do is attend as many games as possible, but the better the attraction the more often Johnny Q. Public will be on hand to see the home team in action.

Holiday attractions, providing the setup mentioned above can be made, should be outstanding if the schedule would pit Stroudsburg against Carbondale, Hazleton against Berwick and Frederick meeting Chambersburg. If the six clubs are all good, they will attract regardless of the schedule. Good attendance is the secret to the success of any baseball organization, but if each team in the circuit can find several angles, the task of operating successfully will be made that much better. Anyone entering minor league ball can't expect to make a profit, but if everything goes well, a club can just about make the books balance.

Since the North Atlantic League was inactive for one year, it deprived the eastern section of the United States of a class "D" league. The Pony League is of class "D" calibre, but as far as the people of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and, etc., are concerned, the league is strictly west, due to the fact that it operates in the western sections of New York and Pennsylvania. The Eastern Shore League is gone, the Canadian-American is showing signs of bowing out, the Colonial and Border circuits have already closed their gates and in general have made room for another minor circuit.

The fact that three circuits of lower classification are out of the running and a fourth on the fence should improve the status of the NAL, as far as making major league agreements are concerned. This and the manner in which several of the owners have been moving at this date indicate that nobody is making the venture with his eyes closed. The owners have refused to officially bind themselves to the North Atlantic League until a fitting fifth and sixth club have been added to the standings. The situation doesn't appear nearly as dark as it did at the same time last year.

New Pact Reported Between Majors, Pacific Coast League

Washington, (AP)—Congressional baseball investigators learned yesterday that a new agreement between the Pacific Coast league and the majors is in the making that will speed the day major league ball is played in the west.

Buffalo Lists First Negro On Roster

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball League have announced the purchase of the team's first Negro player.

The club said yesterday it has purchased Charley Harmon, 25-year-old second base star from the Olean Oilers, pennant winners in this year's class "D" Pony league race.

Record—Harmon batted .377 for Olean and had driven in 278 runs for the class "D" club in the last two seasons.

Also purchased from Olean was left-handed pitcher Edwin Williams. Egan general manager Leo T. Miller said. He did not reveal the terms of the purchases.

Always With Winner

New York—Eddie Stanky has played on three different National League pennant winners in five years. In 1947 he was with the Brooklyn Dodgers, in '48 with the Boston Braves and in '51 with the New York Giants.

ESSTC Drilling Hard For West Chester Contest

Spirit Reaches High Tide At Local School

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College is presenting that once a season display of outstanding color and spirit this week that comes with the annual ESSTC-West Chester football battle, a rivalry that has raged since back in 1937 when the two schools first crossed body blocks on the gridiron. The arch rivals clash on the Normal Hill field this year, with the kickoff slated for 2 p.m. Saturday.

West Chester has dominated the series for the most part, but the Warriors have been drilling hard during the early portion of this week until long after darkness has covered the ESSTC practice terrain and made further drills impossible.

Improve Weapons

The charges of Coach Gene Martin have plenty of work to do before they will be able to oppose the Rams. The Warriors are still smarting from a 33-7 lacing handed them by Shippensburg last Saturday, after the East Stroudsburg contingent had opened the campaign with successive victories over Millersville and Mansfield.

However, the red and black clad gridders have put last week's showing behind them and are currently hard at work in an effort to sharpen their offensive and defensive weapons for the season's top game.

Signs are being prepared for display and the entire ESSTC campus is alive with excitement as the hour for the West Chester battle draws near. It is at this time each year that the local college puts on its only display of real football spirit.

Saturday's contest is expected to be displayed before the largest crowd of the season, with a special "Homecoming Day" program planned for the ESSTC alumni.

Nebraska Back Lost To Squad

Lincoln, Neb. (AP)—Sophomore halfback Tom Carodine of Omaha, rated as one of Nebraska's most promising backs, was dismissed from the Cornhusker football squad yesterday.

Reasons—Coach Bill Glassford said Carodine was dropped "because of his failure to attend classes regularly plus his failure to attend Monday's football practice session."

Answer—In response to a question by Rep. Hillings (R-Calif.), O'Connor said it contained a change in the rules covering the drafting of players from the Pacific Coast league by major league clubs.

He indicated the provision would permit players to indicate in their contracts whether they shall be subject to the draft.

Under present baseball regulations, one player from each Pacific Coast league team may be claimed by the majors at a stipulated price regardless of the wishes of the Pacific Coast league or the player himself. This practice has long been a bone of contention between the Pacific Coast league and the majors.

Former Official Blasts Baseball Farms

FORMER mono STET Washington (AP)—Leslie O'Connor, who for 23 years was one of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis' closest advisers, said yesterday farm systems are destroying organized baseball.

O'Connor told a house judiciary subcommittee that late Judge Landis never liked the farm system. But, O'Connor said, "Judge Landis did not oppose it as much as I do."

Under the farm system, a major league club owns or controls minor league teams. The subcommittee, studying whether baseball violates anti-trust laws, has been casting a critical eye on the farms.

O'Connor said that the rules say no team can control more than 40 ball players. "But in the farm system," he said, "it actually can control hundreds of players."

He contended that this isn't good for the player, the minor leagues or, in some cases, the major league clubs which go in for farming.

Now a Chicago lawyer and also counsel for the Pacific Coast league, O'Connor tossed off these opinions:

"I think the farm system has not benefited the minor leagues, and never will."

"I have always argued that the farm system ultimately will destroy the structure of baseball, and I still think so."

O'Connor was asked:

"Do you think it has destroyed the structure of baseball?"

"No," O'Connor said, "but it's on its way."

Here are some of the objections O'Connor raised:

Ball players—under the farm system they're largely limited to the organization with which they sign. If a second baseman is signed, and the club happens to have a good second baseman, O'Connor said the player may be put in "cold storage."

"They'll hold him there until he's needed," he said, in this way, he argued, good players may be kept in the minors when they really deserve a chance in the majors.

Minor leagues—they have been cut off from many sources of revenue that they had before, such as sale of players. He said the farm system got its foothold during the depression, and originally the idea was that the majors would help the minors only until the emergency had passed.

"When the depression lifted," O'Connor said, "the major leagues were completely in the saddle."

O'Connor said he had made no study of how baseball could get itself out of the farm system, now that it is thoroughly in it.

He admitted, too, that any attempt to cancel the farm system entirely would cause considerable confusion.

Lehigh Uses Passes As Chief Weapon

Bethlehem—Lehigh University's gridders are paced by Herb Weiss both on the ground and through the air statistics on four games played indicate. The Engineer with two defeats and two victories will meet their biggest rival, Rutgers, at 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon at New Brunswick, N. J.

Total Offense

In total offense, the Brown and White has chalked up 654 yards while the four combined opponents have 1,154 yards to their credit. The Engineers, with Weiss spearheading the attack, have the edge via the aerial route. They have completed 33 out of 88 forward attempts for 482 yards. Rival terrors have a better average of completions, 40 out of 80 for 378 yards.

In addition to leading the brow and white in passing, Weiss is averaging 36.6 yards on his punts. He was pressed into service in this department.

New Chapter Opens On Cage Fix Scandal

New York (AP)—The shadow of the college basketball scandal—already the blackest chapter in collegiate sport—will fall upon even more schools and players, an assistant district attorney predicted yesterday.

The assistant D. A., Vincent O'Connor, spoke following the arrest and jailing of the alleged kingpin of a cage "fix" ring.

O'Connor, however, gave no indication as to how many colleges or players might be involved, or when details would be made public.

O'Connor's statement stemmed from the arrest early yesterday of a man identified by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan as Joseph Benetente, 42.

Hogan described Benetente as a hoodlum once investigated in the slaying of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City Democratic leader.

Hogan said Benetente was the biggest of a basketball fix ring that could put up $50,000 in bets on a single game.

Murder Suspect

The assistant district attorney indicated Benetente was spilling the beans on colleges involved but not already mentioned in the scandal.

He was indicted August 17 on a bribery charge in connection with an alleged fix attempt in the 1950 National Collegiate Athletic Association championship game between Bradley University of Peoria, Ill., and City College of New York.

Detectives trailed a friend of his to LaGuardia airport Monday night and nabbed Benetente as he stepped off a plane from Boston.

General sessions Judge Edward J. McCullen set bail at $75,000 and adjourned the case to tomorrow for pleading.

Hogan told reporters that Benetente was a Kansas City hoodlum who associated with "known narcotics dealers and the worst of the Missouri underworld."

"He was investigated in connection with the Binaggio and Gargotta murders," Hogan said.

Binaggio and his top henchman, Charles Gargotta, were shot to death in a Kansas City political clubroom in April, 1950. Nobody has been arrested in the slaying.

Eagles To Play Remainder Of Season Without McMillin

Philadelphia, (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles announced yesterday that Coach Alvin "Bo" McMillin will be unable to return to the team for the balance of the 1951 season, and that Assistant Wayne Millner has been named head coach of the National Football league team.

McMillin underwent an operation last week to correct an intestinal disorder. The veteran college and professional grid coach had been ill off and on since the season opened three weeks ago.

He watched the Eagles win their opener in Chicago as a spectator in the press box after suffering an intestinal attack. He returned to direct the club against San Francisco but a day later was ordered into the St. Mary's hospital for observation. Dr. Thomas Dowd, team physician, then announced that McMillin would be operated on by Dr. Patrick McCarthy.

Reserve Decision

It was indicated by both physicians that McMillin would be unable to return to active coaching this year, but they reserved decision until a post operative examination could be made. Dr. Dowd intimated last week it was not definite whether McMillin would ever be allowed to resume active coaching.

Millner, former Notre Dame star and Washington Redskins star end, came to the Eagles with McMillin this year after Club President James Clark fired Earle "Greasy" Neale. Millner's greatest claim to fame was a spectacular catch he made in 1935 to give Notre Dame a last minute victory over Ohio State. He went on to become one of the National Football league's finest ends, playing with Washington.

Millner was named acting head coach last week and directed the team in its losing effort against the Green Bay Packers last Sunday. It was the first defeat in three games for the Eagles who now hold second place in the NFL's American Division.

Man Of Letters

New York—Joe Luchi, newly acquired player on the New York Knickerbockers, won four varsity cage letters at the University of Cincinnati.

Warriors Clash With Trenton In Soccer

Coach Howard DeNike's East Stroudsburg State Teachers College soccer contingent will be seeking its second straight victory of the young 1951 season today when the Warriors stack up against Trenton State Teachers College, at Trenton, at 3:30 p.m.

The Warriors opened the campaign more than a week ago by slashing Wilkes College, 6-1, on the losing aggregation's home field.

DeNike announced last night that one change may be made in his starting lineup today. Don Kline will probably replace Jay Hollinger at the inside right position, although Hollinger was the outstanding performer in the Wilkes encounter.

Injured

Hollinger injured his knee in the opening game and hasn't been able to operate at full efficiency in practice sessions.

However, the remainder of the starting array will remain intact, with Don Delp in the goal; Hartman, right fullback; Baetold, left fullback; Hartland, right half back; Joe Maiorello, center half back; Fred Gehres, left halfback; Hobart "Hobe" Hutchins, outside right; Kline, inside right; Tom Foley, center forward; Tom Roberts, inside left, and Gilligan, outside left.

The Warriors are scheduled to play their initial home game of the season next Wednesday, when the DeNikemans play host to a strong Lafayette contingent. Trenton's most recent outing found the club bowing to Seton Hall, 4-0.

Warriorettes In Deadlock With Beaver

Jenkintown—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College opened its field hockey season yesterday by battling Beaver College to a 1-1 deadlock here on the latter's home field. Yesterday's encounter was one of five officially scheduled appearances for the Warriorettes.

Marilyn Maure, playing left wing for the visiting contingent, put the Warriorettes out in front during the early minutes of the first half, when she drilled the ball into the Beaver nets.

Events Score

However, the home team didn't remain scoreless very long as Mary Lochner evened the count for Beaver with a goal at the midway point of the first half.

The remainder of the game found the two rivals battling on even terms, with neither able to dent the scoring column again.

ESSTC's field hockey squad will divide itself into two teams for a special "Homecoming Day" game at 11 a. m. Saturday.

The next regularly scheduled encounter is with Temple University, in Philadelphia, although another match with Fanner may be made before that time.

Lineups follow:

Maryland Guard Named Top Lineman

New York (AP) — Bob Ward, Maryland's great All-America guard who played 37 minutes with a broken finger as the Terps downed Georgia 43-7 last Saturday was the overwhelming choice yesterday as lineman of the week.

Ward, a senior from Elizabeth, N. J., drew praise from coaches Wally Butts of Georgia and Jim Tatum of Maryland, as well as from most newsmen who witnessed the game.

He played 47 minutes, both on offense and defense. Most of those who voted for him in the second Associated Press lineman poll of 1951 said the 185-pound guard rated honors as both defensive and offensive lineman.

Statement
"He ruined our chances in the second quarter," said Butts. "With the score 10-7, Maryland, we were going down the field until Tatum sent in Ward with fourth down and less than a yard to go on Maryland's 28. Ward broke through our defense to bring the ball carrier down inches short of a first down. He broke our back on that play, for Maryland drove for another score. That was the turning point of the game."

Five of the Maryland scores came through holes alongside of Ward, one sportswriter noted. A brace is being made to protect his broken left index finger, so that Ward can play Saturday against North Carolina.

Others with considerable support for the weekly honor included Les Richter, California guard; Jim Weatherall, Oklahoma tackle; Aubrey Phillips, Texas Tech offensive center and linebacker; Ray Beck, Georgia Tech guard, and Bill McColl, Stanford end.

Three Football Machines Pace WPIAL Pack

Pittsburgh (AP)—High school football teams in Ambridge, Greensburg and Munhall are pacing the pack in Western Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Athletic league class "AA" competition.

Eight teams are in the running for the championship but those three rate an edge on a mathematical basis. Each has won four league games. The other contenders are Altoona, Jeannette, Uniontown, Farrell and Washington.

Lead
Ramsey and Swissvale lead the 11 teams in the class "A" race. They each boast four league victories.

In class "B" Avalon, Bell Township, Bethel and Elders Ridge are fighting it out with three, five, three and two league wins respectively.

In the WPIAL's newest division, class "C", all teams have been eliminated under the league's lose-or-tie-and-out system. WPIAL officials will have to do up a new method of picking a champ at their meeting Monday in Pittsburgh.

Woman Holds Key To U.S. Timber Hopes

By Ben French

Harrisburg (AP)—A pert young Kansas City mother holds the key to the United States' chances of winning the Olympic horse jumping title next year at Helsinki.

Mrs. Carol Durand, a former Red Cross worker in Burma, is the only equestrian member of the new U. S. equestrian team which meets its first international competition here Saturday at the opening of the week-long Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

The 33-year-old housewife will be jumping with Major John Russell, 29, of nearby New Cumberland, and Arthur McCashin, 41, of Plumkin, N. J., the other two regular members of the American team. Both are veterans of the horse show rings. Billy Steinkraus, of Westport, Conn., is the alternate.

Serves Notice

Mrs. Durand, a petite brunette, has served notice that she will be well able to hold up her end of the competition. She won her position at Fort Reilly, Kas., two weeks ago over the best riders the country has to offer. Her triumph with the bit and spur stamped her as the nation's top horsewoman.

Last year Mrs. Durand, who has been riding since she was five, helped lead the country's first civilian entry to the three-day international low score competition title, one of the leading awards of the Pennsylvania National.

The Americans had been given little chance of rating high up among the top riders of Mexico, England, Ireland, Canada and Chile. But it was Mrs. Durand's near-flawless performance on Reno Kirk that was mainly responsible.

This year she will have Reno Kirk and Miss Budweiser, who won the grand championship stake for domestic jumpers here last year under the name of Circuit Rose. August Busch, of St. Louis, purchased the horse after the 1950 show season and presented it to the team.

Carol, who has a 16-month-old son, started riding as a child on her father's Missouri farm. While attending Baldwin School at Bryn Mawr, Pa., and Smith College, she started her horse show competition that will be climaxed next summer at the Helsinki Olympics.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By JIMMY HATLO

Army Loses Another First String Player

West Point, N.Y. (AP)—End Ed Weaver, the only returning regular from the 1950 football squad, was declared ineligible yesterday by the academic department.

Deficient

The six-foot, three-inch, 205-pound end from Kingston, N.Y., is deficient in one subject. He will be sidelined until he catches up.

He definitely will not play against Harvard at Cambridge on Saturday.

The loss of the big wingman adds to the woes of the beleaguered Cadets. Now not only do the Cadets lack a single experienced player in the starting lineup, but they also are badly hampered by injuries.

Named Dartmouth Coach

Hanover, N.H. (AP)—James R. "Bob" Shawkey, one-time New York Yankee pitcher and the club's manager in 1930, yesterday was named head baseball coach at Dartmouth College.

Tigers Drop Third Official After Dismal 1951 Showing

Detroit, (AP)—Ray Kennedy, farm director for the Detroit Tigers, said last night he was "fired this afternoon."

Officials of the Detroit American league club could not be reached for comment.

It had been rumored for weeks that Kennedy, farm director here since 1948, likely would be replaced by Harold "Muddy" Ruel, who quit as Cleveland's farm director Sunday. The Detroit club and Ruel both declined comment on this.

Statement

"I was fired this afternoon," Kennedy told a reporter. "My contract runs until December, but I was relieved of my duties."

Kennedy, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1946 and their farm director in the 1947 and 1948 seasons, succeeded "Red" Rolfe as Detroit farm manager in 1948 when Rolfe was moved up to manager of the Tigers.

Kennedy is the third Tiger official to be let out since the club dived to a dismal fifth this year, after finishing a close second in 1950. Billy Evans has been replaced by Charlie Gehring as General manager and Clair Berry has been replaced as road secretary.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
